VOL. [illegible]—NO. 6257 PORTLAND, OREGON: FRIDAY, MAY 6, [illegible] PRICE—TEN CENTS.

THE EASTERN STATES.

New York Papers on the Break of the Deadlock.

A STORY ABOUT CARL SCHURZ AND THE NORTHERN PACIFIC.

A Boom in the New York Stock Market—Two Railroad Disasters in Texas, etc.

[illegible] Southworth that [illegible] warning was torn from the same sheet of paper upon which Whitaker had written [illegible] his mother. Dr. Piper presented [illegible] photograph [illegible] pieces of paper [illegible] presented in a similar way [illegible] Southworth had professed to match. [illegible] was obvious. Witness also testified that the pieces of paper alleged to have been [illegible] never have been joined [illegible] different chemical composition, [illegible] their different tints in the photograph. He [illegible] that if the note of warning had been [illegible] as to erase previous pencil marks, [illegible] would have been injured, and this assertion he supported by rubbing a piece of paper in the presence of the court until the lines were almost obliterated, while pencil marks were still visible. The most interesting part of this testimony was with relation to the alleged underwriting. In the first place Dr. Piper said it was absurd to try to bring out obscure marks by enlarged photographs, for enlarging could only disperse the light. If any change were to be made it would be better to diminish the size. Some of the photographs presented to the court by Southworth had been sent to Dr. Piper and upon the [illegible] and spotted surface of which Southworth's imagination witness said could find all sorts of letters, but the most curious phase of his fancy was that the letters were all in his own handwriting. Dr. Piper had showed photographs to other persons, all of whom had been able to find in fancy letters upon the surface, but always in their own handwriting. In no instance, however, had any two persons been able to discover the same letter in the same place.

Newspaper Views of the Break in the Senate.

Democratic papers are merry over breaking of the deadlock. The World calls it a republican backdown and says that Dawes' swaggering speech yesterday will not conceal from anybody, not even from Dawes himself, the fact that he and his colleagues have been beaten into attending to public business. Republican senators admit they have been in the wrong and the democratic senators in the right from the beginning of the session.

The Herald says: "The democrats have held their ground from the outset with remarkable tenacity. They have held a position as unconstitutional and revolutionary as that of Parnell in his obstructive policy in the house of commons."

Schurz and the Presidency of the Northern Pacific.

NEW YORK, May 5.—A Times special says: A statement appeared in a Cincinnati newspaper on Tuesday that Carl Schurz has been invited to become president of the Northern Pacific railroad when the latter should come under control of the Villard combination. President Villard said to a Times reporter last evening that this story was the most absurd that he had ever heard, and added: "You may quote me as authority for saying that there is not a word of truth in the report." At the offices of the Northern Pacific prominent officers said that there was no consolidation with the Villard combination nor is there likely to be one.

NEW YORK, May 5.—Carl Schurz was in town today. After breakfast he went to the office of the Oregon Railroad & Navigation Co., in which Henry Villard has an office. It having been rumored for several days that Schurz had joined the Villard combination and that he was to be offered the presidency of the Northern Pacific, a telegram reporter asked him if it was true. Mr. Schurz replied that he would see representatives of the press this evening at the depot.

Two Railroad Disasters in Texas.

[illegible] A Weatherford special gives further [illegible] of a fearful wreck of two [illegible] trains [illegible] yesterday morning on the Texas Pacific road, [illegible] Weatherford, caused by heavy rains [illegible] water [illegible] two trestle bridges. [illegible]

Guilty by the Letter of the Law.

[illegible] was withdrawn today, and Thomas was sentenced [illegible] jury and nearly every citizen, were forwarded to the governor [illegible] pardon.

People for the Northwest.

CHICAGO, May 5.—During April [illegible] emigrants from foreign lands passed through Chicago, [illegible] the states and territories of the northwest. This is an increase of [illegible] per cent over the figures of April [illegible].

The St. Louis Flood.

ST. LOUIS, May 5.—The water continues to rise slowly [illegible] is gaining ground, but no very heavy breakages have occurred and damage is not great as yet.

ST. LOUIS, May 5.—White river has been rising and has [illegible] in some additional places. It is stationary now and few fear any great damage.

The Salacious Singers.

NEW YORK, May 5.—There is no news of the manager of the Beauplan Opera Co., which collapsed here. Employees and victims are anxious for money due and believe Beauplan to be still in the city. The relations of Ambre and Tournie have long been food for gossip, but it is believed that she went away also to avoid financial responsibility. There has been some curious doings among the principals of the troupe at the hotel. It is believed that part of Ambre's baggage went with Bernhardt's on board the Amerique. Tournie's wife received a letter from him yesterday. He said: "When you receive this I shall be on the sea on my way to London. Go to Havre at once. There I will meet you and explain all."

Fire at Boston.

BOSTON, May 5.—A fire in E. & F. King's seven story brick building, [illegible] to 413 Atlantic avenue, occupied by a number of firms, caused damage of about $30,000; insured.

The Troy Police Quarrel.

TROY, N. Y., May 5.—The police commissioners balloted [illegible] times to-night for superintendent without result.

There is talk of a vigilance committee in south Troy if depredations are continued. Today roughs fired a load of straw, burning that and a tenement.

Artesian Wells at New York.

About forty artesian wells have been dug in this city, principally by brewers, the average depth being 400 feet.

The Chicago Wheat Market.

CHICAGO, May 5.—Wheat, firm, higher; 102½ cash; 102½ bid for May; 104½ June; 104¼ July.

A Boom in Stocks.

NEW YORK, May 5.—The Post says: Stock speculation has not been so active and booming for many months. An enormous short interest has been formed in the market starting prices upwards, and the advance had hardly got well under way before the public began buying, and outsiders are now competing for stock in the market with those who had sold the stock short and who are therefore at present compulsory buyers.

Suicide at Louisville.

LOUISVILLE, May 5.—Abe Frost, a well known Hebrew, suicided by shooting; family troubles the cause.

The World's Fair Dead.

NEW YORK, May 5.—There is no disguising the fact that the world's fair is as good as dead, and the commission is considering the most suitable means of closing it up. All subscriptions do not exceed $[illegible] 000,000. Money received will be returned.

Investigation Ordered.

NEW YORK, May 5.—Mayor Grace has ordered immediate investigation of the books and accounts of the dock deputy.

Important Railroad Appointment.

[illegible] Peck has been promoted from general manager of the Grand Trunk railroad to be general traffic manager of all the Grand Trunk lines in the west, with headquarters in Chicago. Several other appointments are announced. Peck was appointed by President Garfield recently to be government director of the Union Pacific railroad. The selection of such prominent and valuable men for these positions and locating them at Chicago indicates determination on the part of the Grand Trunk to build up its western business and make Chicago the central point of western traffic.

Atlantic Freights.

NEW YORK, May 5.—The demoralization in ocean freight rates is partially owing to the eagerness of the owners of steamships to get their vessels to Europe to take advantage of the existing tremendous passenger traffic, the profits of such traffic being more than enough to offset losses on this side of the Atlantic.

DeLesseps Wasting Time.

The Tribune says: Is DeLesseps deceiving the French public about the isthmus canal? All reports from Panama agree that no digging has begun yet, although the season of outdoor work is fast drawing to a close. Considerable surveying is to be done and a small force of laborers are at work cutting brush. That is all. DeLesseps himself [illegible] after the affairs there. His representative at Panama [illegible] is about to start for Paris. The rainy [illegible] will soon put a stop to field work, and [illegible] nothing has been accomplished in this direction worth mentioning. A year has been as good as lost.

Explorations of South America.

Prof. H. H. Smith and wife with a party of assistants left Brooklyn [illegible] on the steamer City of [illegible]. Smith will call at [illegible] Pernambuco and will then [illegible] to Para. From this point he and party will start on a trip up the Amazon [illegible]. It is his intention to explore the Amazon and Tapajos rivers to Cuyaba. The party will remain there a year and then follow the course of the river westward to Bolivia, and there is also a probability that they will explore part of the [illegible] river. Mrs. Smith will be the first white woman who has visited the upper waters of the Amazon.

The Bakers' Strike.

The success of the striking bakers is now almost assured. This week will probably end the strike.

Gold Bearing Quartz Discovered in Wisconsin.

[illegible] Wis., May 5.—Some time since what was thought to be gold bearing quartz was discovered a few miles northeast of this [illegible] on the farm of [illegible] K. Maxwell. A ledge

Death of Iowa's First Governor.

[illegible] May 5.—[illegible] Briggs, the first governor of Iowa, and for several years pastor [illegible] died at the residence of his son [illegible] Omaha, aged 78. Deceased died of [illegible] stomach and lungs. He was born in New York and when quite young emigrated to Ohio. In [illegible] emigrated to the town of Andrew, in Jackson county, Iowa, but becoming a mail contractor he made Davenport his headquarters. When Iowa was admitted as a state in 1846, he was elected governor and served. He then engaged in several [illegible] business. He made a trip to Colorado [illegible] the mining excitement, and returning home after spending considerable time there he went to Montana in 1868 with his son John and a large party of men, remaining there until 1870, when he came back. For the last six years he has resided here with his son John, the only survivor [illegible] eight children. He has several brothers in California.

Carlyle's Reminiscences.

LONDON, May 5.—Carlyle's niece sends to the press a copy of Carlyle's instructions dated 1866, strictly prohibiting the publication of his reminiscences without the strictest editing. She adds that she never understood that he had revoked these instructions by oral declarations, as Froude alleges.

North Africa.

TUNIS, May 5.—The French have occupied Beja.

MADRID, May 5.—The Liberalist states that the Spanish ambassador at Paris has been privately informed that the Tunis affair would be settled within a week, as France is anxious to avoid further complications.

TUNIS, May 5.—The rumored occupation of Beja and Porte Farina by the French is untrue. The bey persists in his refusal of the French demands. An officer of the British ironclad Monarch visited the bey yesterday. Gen. Logerot's column has not advanced beyond Djedeida.

South Africa.

DURBAN, May 5.—News from the Transvaal is disquieting. Gen. Woods has everything ready for an emergency. A large meeting of the Boers was held at Pretoria a few days ago whereat speeches expressed most extreme views relative to terms of ultimate settlement.

International Copyright.

LONDON, May 5.—Earl Granville recently addressed a dispatch to Lowell, American minister, on the subject of copyright, saying that it would be satisfactory to England if a treaty could be negotiated with America on the same basis as with other countries, namely, without any condition for manufacture of English books in America; but if this condition is essential England will negotiate on that basis. A treaty providing that books written by American authors in England shall be manufactured in America in order to have copyright there, would be covered by existing act, but it provides that books written by American authors in America shall be manufactured in England in order to have copyright in England. Such provision would require the sanction of parliament. Lowell replies [illegible] "A treaty confirmed by the senate would be law in America."

Victor Hugo is quite ill.

Reception to Princess Stephanie at Vienna.

VIENNA, May 5.—The whole city is now devoted to preparation for the reception of Princess Stephanie who is to be married to Crown Prince Rudolph on the 10th inst. The route of procession to-morrow, where the princess will make her entry into the city, is being elaborately decorated. Illumination of private houses and the dome of the cathedral of St. Stephen by electric light, will be a great feature of the festivities. The Prince and Princess Wilhelm leave Berlin today or to-morrow for the city of [illegible]. The Belgian minister at Berlin comes to represent the German royal family. The King of the Belgians with his daughter, Princess Clementine, the Belgian minister of foreign affairs and the principal officers of the household, left Brussels last evening and will join the queen and Princess Stephanie at Augsburg. The count and countess of Flanders with the Austrian minister to Belgium and their households left Brussels last night.

Villard Controls the O. C. R. R.

FRANKFORT, May 5.—At a meeting of the bondholders of the Oregon and California railroad today, President Villard's plan for reorganization of the road was adopted, 550 to 19. Messrs. Villard, Bretherton and R. D. Peebles, were appointed trustees of the road. Villard, Endicott, R. B. Pullman, Horace White, W. H. Starbuck, Bretherton and T. F. Oakes, were appointed directors with power to nominate four others at the next general meeting to be held in October.

Failed to Agree.

SAN JOSE, May 5.—The jury in the Carlton case for manslaughter came in at 5 o'clock after being out 24 hours and announced that they could not agree, and were discharged. They stood 8 for conviction and 4 for acquittal.

The British Commons.

LONDON, May 5.—Parnell's amendment opposing the second reading of the land bill says that the land bill in its present state would fail to secure to tenant farmers such reduction in rents as would afford adequate protection to their property in holdings, and would leave evicted or rackrented tenants in a defenseless position, and that it offers no guarantee for the creation of a sufficient number of occupying owners to check monopoly in land or make available to the laboring population any of the large area of cleared land from which former occupiers were unjustly evicted.

Gladstone replying to Parnell said that he would place no obstacle in his way.

Justin McCarthy moved a resolution that the action of the Irish executive in arbitrarily arresting a member of parliament and proclaiming the city of Dublin is an abuse of powers granted by the coercion act, etc.; but he could not facilitate it.

Gladstone announced, amid cheers, that he will move on Monday next an address praying the crown to provide a monument in Westminster Abbey to the memory of Lord Beaconsfield.

GENERAL SHERMAN

And War Minister Lincoln—Sherman's Attitude during the Last Campaign, etc., etc.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Gen. Sherman is not quite cordial towards Secretary Lincoln, because the latter consults himself and Sheridan more than him. The office which Sherman holds is a sort of fifth wheel in a wagon and the duties and responsibilities of the position are not clearly defined, it is hard to tell where the responsibility of the secretary of war begins and that of the general of the army ends. The office will expire with the death or retirement of Sherman and probably will not be revived again. Gen. Sherman took no active part in the last election but favored the election of Hancock in the recent presidential contest. This much is known and has never been disputed. The story is that republican leaders were alarmed about his attitude and feared that he would make some public declaration to ex-soldiers of the country, which would influence many of them to vote for Hancock and thus endanger the cause in states like New York and Indiana. Sherman is very popular with the soldier element, having had under his command first and last nearly half a million men and a single sentence from him like this, "Hancock is all right, boys, support him," would have been worth all the documents issued by the democrats during the whole campaign. His conduct however has been very prudent and his attitude neutral. It is said that the excursion of the president and other prominent officials to the far western coast was planned and carried out during the campaign to take Sherman away from the seat of war. Gen. Sherman was away at the time of the October elections which settled matters. Sherman and Garfield are on excellent terms and so were Sherman and Hayes until the last few months of the latter's administration. There were then some unfortunate differences growing out of army retirements, Gen. Sherman thinking his own wishes were not sufficiently consulted, which was pretty generally shared here.

Virginia Politics.

[Interview with Mahone.]

The fall election in Virginia is very important, because it involves the freedom of the ballot and the removal of the capitation tax, because the state government to be chosen is to be friendly or unfriendly to [illegible] suffrage and to free schools. On a fair and open struggle between the Bourbon democrats and the liberals we should sweep the state, but there are among us Bourbons [illegible] mostly officeholders, who [illegible] pretense that they can hope to carry the state [illegible] straight republican ticket also. My belief is it is these republican Bourbons [illegible] deceive [illegible] good voters into the false step of supporting them. Even if they could carry out their designs, they are powerless in sixty-one of the ninety-nine [illegible] of the state, and could hope at the utmost to elect but 10 delegates out of 100 with even a small success in the senate, where 20 senators hold over, 1[illegible] of whom are readjusters, and of the 20 to be elected many are in districts which the readjusters control.

A very sad piece of news comes from Russia. Three men named Rysakoff, Kovalsky and Presbajensky are to be tried for political offenses. To add to the general horror, the last named person is the son of a priest named Presbakoff. The gentlemen in charge of the cable have our earnest sympathy.

"We are," says the Saturday Review, "weary of popularizations of knowledge, of books in which information is reduced to a pulpy condition for the benefit of feeble and indolent minds."

NATIONAL AFFAIRS.

The Chinese Treaties Adopted by an Almost Unanimous Vote.

THE PRESIDENT WITHDRAWS THE CONKLING NOMINATIONS.

Was the President to Blame [illegible] New York—Hot [illegible] between [illegible] and Secretary Lincoln—[illegible], Etc.

[illegible]

The Chinese commercial treaty, which was next taken up, met with some little opposition from those on the ground that its provisions about trials in mixed courts in China are not so favorable for our citizens as those of the existing treaty, but under pressure of a brief explanation of the subject by Miller and some [illegible] he desired to maintain [illegible] he [illegible] his opposition and the treaty was speedily ratified. Miller received many congratulations from his brother senators upon the effective and altogether admirable manner in which he has directed his efforts to obtain favorable action on these important matters to a triumphant issue. To him more than any other man is due the breaking of the senatorial deadlock which threatened to defeat the treaty early consideration, and to him belongs the honor of having borne the laboring oar throughout the whole progress of the treaties through the senate. It is due to Senator Farley to note likewise that by refraining from any attempt to impede the treaties and by actively discouraging all symptoms [illegible] among his democratic colleagues yesterday and today, he greatly facilitated their final ratification.

American and Hungarian Agriculture Compared.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—The American Agricultural Association will hold an exhibition in some central part of the United States in 1882. At a meeting yesterday Pekar, a commissioner sent by the Hungarian government to investigate the agricultural condition of his country, and more especially the wheat-growing districts of the northwest, spoke upon the investigations he had made. Winter wheat he said, which in this country was considered inferior to spring wheat in Hungary, was valued more highly and reached the standard of excellence more nearly. Wheat producing lands of Hungary were exhausted compared with the virgin soil of the far west. He thought that Hungary excelled the United States in the matter of horse raising. In his country the government supported at great expense hundreds of horse breeding stations where stallions of superior breed were kept at the disposal of the peasantry free of charge.

Races at the National Fair Grounds.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—First day of the spring trotting meeting at the national fair grounds. Three minute class race, won by [illegible] Philadelphia, in three straight heats. Time, 2:36½, 2:35½, 2:34¼. 2:26 class won by John Splawn's Florence in three straight heats; time, 2:3[illegible], 2:2[illegible]. 2:31 class won by Quintons, [illegible] S. Clark, of Trenton, N. J., in three straight heats; time, 2:31¼, 2:3[illegible].

THE SENATE.

WASHINGTON, May 5.

The senate transacted a remarkably large amount of business in executive session today, clearing the calendar of the treaties and also taking final action on 84 nominations in about four and a half hours. The first matter disposed of was the Chinese immigration treaty, which, after continuation of yesterday's debate, lasting three hours, but developing no fresh points of interests, was ratified without an amendment by a practically unanimous vote at 3, there being only three senators recorded in the negative. The Chinese commercial treaty, after a brief discussion, was also ratified without amendment and substantially without opposition. Proceeding with the calendar the senate next ratified in quick succession an extradition treaty with the United States of Colombia, a consular convention with Italy, modifying and defining the judicial powers of certain consulates, a convention with Morocco, respecting taxation prerogatives of the Moorish government, and a treaty with Japan prescribing reciprocal duties for the Japanese and United States governments in cases of shipwrecks upon their respective coasts. During the remainder of this afternoon's session the senate confirmed the following nominations: Wm. Walter Phelps, of New Jersey, minister to Austria; Cortez Fessenden, of Michigan, U. S. surveyor general of Dakota; Richard W. Montgomery, receiver of public moneys, Bloomington, Nebraska; Lionel A. Sheldon, of Ohio, governor of New Mexico Territory; Edward S. Meyer, U. S. attorney for the northern district of Ohio; Henry Fink, U. S. marshal for the eastern district of Wisconsin; Thos. Wilson, of the District of Columbia, consul at Ghent, and John F. Jenne, of New Jersey, consul at Nuevo Laredo.

Time's Revenges.

The Revue des Deux Mondes publishes some very interesting reminiscences of the armistice between the German and French armies in 1871. They are from the pen of M. Cresson, prefect of police, in Paris, who accompanied Jules Favre to Versailles to confer with Bismarck and then stock on the subject of furnishing the city of Paris with provisions. Among other things M. Cresson writes:

"The ruins of St. Cloud were still burning and the [illegible] darkened the horizon. Mr. Favre [illegible] to Mr. Bismarck as at the vandalism of the German troops in setting fire to the building and received from him the following [illegible] answer: 'Have you ever [illegible] Germany? Have you ever looked down [illegible] ruins of our castles? Your armies have levied [illegible] contributions and destroyed [illegible]. You accuse us of stealing clocks. While the armies under your first Napoleon were victorious and overran Pomerania, there was [illegible] hid himself in a miserable house, [illegible] by your troops. He was rocking a little boy in a cradle. The [illegible] had nothing left in the world but a silver watch. Your soldiers [illegible] the watch and then destroyed the cradle. It was my father who was robbed of the watch, and I was that little boy in the cradle. You were victors at that time. To-day we are victorious and you are the last who should complain about the misfortunes of war.'"

HOW THE PROPRIETARY INTEREST [illegible]

The Stock Not Subscribed and Paid up, but Distributed [illegible] "Proprietors" of the [illegible]

[illegible] On May 20, 1869, the company made a contract with Jay Cooke, and the parties to the first agreement, made another agreement, supplemental to the first, in substance as follows: The proprietary twelve share interests were increased to twenty-four shares. Cooke was to furnish means to build the road by selling its bonds, to be issued and secured by a mortgage [illegible]. He was to procure subscriptions for $5,000,000 bonds in thirty days and advance forthwith $20,175 for immediate use [illegible] the whole enterprise.

An Appeal for Protection.

A Kentucky postmaster unable to go to Washington has written to Gen. Garfield to protect him, and he thus concludes his appeal to the president:

"I want you to stand up for me, Mr. President, because during the campaign I stood by you. I subscribed $21 toward defraying the expenses of your election, the receipt for $21 of which I enclose. I [illegible] the receipt for the other $10. Please return these receipts when you answer this letter."

No Knowing what May Happen.

[From the Cincinnati Enquirer.]

It is hoped we will never come to that pass where the president of the United States will feel obliged to consult with Senator Conkling before engaging a woman to come on Fridays to scrub out the White House. And yet we can't tell what may happen.

Another Temperance Issue in Ohio.

[From the Cincinnati Commercial, Rep.]

The republican party of Ohio should be very loath to sacrifice itself for the sake of these temperance fanatics. Temperance legislation is an ancient fraud, and it is not worth while to expend more [illegible] watching it, for it is an attempt to apply an impracticable medicine to an incurable disease.

Shiloh Summed Up.

[From the Cincinnati Gazette.]

The Shiloh affair was the partial sacrifice of a fine volunteer army by West Point neglect of all that belongs to war. The question is whether the responsibility shall be placed on the right heads, or whether they shall be allowed to place it on the volunteers.

At a meeting of the stockholders of the Cascade Road and Bridge Co., at Sandy, Monday, May 2, Messrs. S. D. Coalman, H. E. Ross and J. C. Gorder, were elected directors. Considerable work has been done on the road this season and it is expected that it will be ready for travel by the 1st of this month.

WRINKLED FACES.

It is a pitiful sight to see young ladies with their faces all wrinkled and prematurely old faces; nevertheless it is quite common, and to any one who observes the tendency of the times it is reason to very [illegible] the use of face powders, enamels and [illegible], which are composed of chemicals, [illegible] deleterious [illegible] all of which are known [illegible] injurious and if used for any length of time will destroy the complexion, so that it will [illegible] impossible to restore it. Mothers should be very careful to see that their daughters do not use these preparations but ask for and obtain Slavens' Boratine Toilet Powder, the only harmless [illegible]. THE WINTER OF 1880–81.

[illegible] written by [illegible] Mrs. M. J. [illegible] secretary [illegible] Walla Walla [illegible]

[illegible] About a quarter of a mile to feed their horses and cattle, a mill in the barn, but most of them in the woods, where there was a little creek running through the woods, where they could get water a little, but not very far. It was only by unwearied labor and the greatest economy in feeding that enough of our cattle and horses were saved for present use. Only one horse has died but we have lost twelve cattle. Walkers, however, had to slaughter [illegible] some [illegible]

It is the work of the Indian women to get the firewood. Sometimes the men assist them when the snow is very deep. It is always brought on their backs. Last winter it was brought on their backs, and they on snow shoes. The forepart of the winter both men and women spent a great deal of time and strength in digging away the snow, so that their horses could get grass. Sometimes they would cut [illegible] and feed them. But most all died before the 1st of January. The old chief says he had seventy [illegible] and thirty cattle, but before the close of April [illegible] and only two cattle. [illegible] not [illegible] any but all [illegible] a dozen [illegible] belonging to the Indians. They had nearly [illegible] which they had raised through our instrumentality. There are only three or four left. A [illegible] of sixteen cattle belonging to the Bay Indians was sent to the Spokan river to winter; only one of them is now alive.

[illegible]

At [illegible] the Hudson's Bay Company had two hundred and seventy [illegible]. By April, only three were alive. Another [illegible] of eighty belonging to a single man is all dead. The horses of the Indians in that region and most of the Bay fed stock farther north were [illegible]. At Colville some cattle froze to death standing.

DICKENS' LOVE OF LONDON.

From a paper in the May Scribner on the localities of Dickens (including cuts of Sairey Gamp's, Pecksniff's, boat house, the alleged Old Curiosity Shop, White Horse Inn, Cooling Church, etc.) Dr. B. E. Martin writes as follows of the affection of "Boz" for London streets:

"There is no end to the strolls through London streets, which we may take with Dickens, and I know no more delightful guide than this alert figure, as he takes in turn the arm of each of his myriad creations—those creations which ought to be counted in the census!—and leads us with them to their favorite haunts. We may fondly fancy that we knew something about London, but we find even the self-sufficient Forster constrained to own that there is much to learn concerning it from each of his successive books. If not a born Londoner, Dickens was born for London, and derived his best inspiration from its familiar scenes. To him as to Macaulay, its smoky atmosphere and its muddy river had more charm than the pure air of Hertfordshire and the crystal currents of the Rhine. His love for its streets was keener than that expressed by Horace Walpole or Leigh Hunt, by Charles Lamb or Thackeray. Only Dr. Johnson's affection equaled it in intensity and steadfastness; but, unlike the sturdy doctor, Dickens was passionately fond of country life and country scenery, and there is no pretense in any of his enthusiasm about it. He would go away at times for a trip through, or a residence in, France, Switzerland, Italy; but the quiet and isolation he sought, the beauty of form and color of the mountains and snow peaks he loved so well, did not suffice him to live on; his best brain work failed him, and he was always finally forced to go, for his intellectual food, back to his beloved streets. 'For a week or a fortnight, I can write prodigiously in a tired place, as at Broadstairs; and then a day in London sets me up again and starts me. But the toil and the labor of writing day after day without that magic lantern [London] is IMMENSE!!' Especially during the process of incubation was he given to queer night walks. He writes to Forster of himself, while composing his 'Christmas Carol': 'And thinking whereof, he walked about the black streets of London fifteen and twenty miles, many a night, when all sober folks had gone to bed.'"

THE O. & C. RAILROAD

Turned over to the Management of Henry Villard and Associates.

[illegible]

The agreement [illegible] frequent newspaper [illegible] completed [illegible] the bondholders [illegible] to the road [illegible] bonds at the rate of $25,000 on each mile of constructed road. The syndicate binds themselves to purchase an amount of $1,000,000 of these bonds at the rate [illegible] for the issue of prior lien obligations, the proceeds of $1[illegible],000 of which are to be employed in the completion of the road, the proceeds of the other $[illegible] being used to extinguish the existing prior lien. It is believed that the proceeds of the bonds [illegible] will be sufficient to complete the road to California in two years.

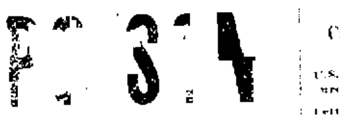
Swallowing



Spurts of disgusting mucous from the nostrils or upon the tonsils, Watery Eyes, Snuffles, Buzzing in the Ears, Deafness, Crackling sensations in the Head, Intermittent Pains over the Eyes, Fetid Breath, Nasal Twang, Scabs in the Nostrils and Tickling in the Throat are

SIGNS of CATARRH.

No other such loathsome, treacherous and undermining malady curses mankind. One-fifth of our Children die of diseases generated by its Infectious Poison, and one-fourth of living men and women drag out miserable existences from the same cause. While asleep, the impurities in the nostrils are necessarily swallowed into the stomach and inhaled into the lungs to poison every part of the system.

Dr. Wei De Meyer's Catarrh Cure destroys the purulent virus and kills the seeds of poison in the farthest parts of the system. It will not only relieve, but certainly cure Catarrh at any stage. It is the only remedy which in our judgment has ever yet really cured a case of Chronic Catarrh.

King of the Blood

Is not a "cure-all;" it is a blood-purifier and tonic. Impurity of blood poisons the system, deranges the circulation, and thus induces many disorders, known by different names to distinguish them according to effects, but being really branches or phases of that great generic disorder, Impurity of Blood. Such are Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Constipation, Nervous Disorders, Headache, Backache, General Weakness, Heart Disease, Dropsy, Kidney Disease, Piles, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Skin Disorders, Pimples, Ulcers, Swellings, &c., &c. King of the Blood prevents and cures these by attacking the cause, Impurity of the Blood. Chemists and physicians agree in calling it "the most genuine and efficient preparation for the purpose." Sold by Druggists, $1 per bottle. See testimonials, directions, &c., in pamphlet, "Treatise on Diseases of the Blood," wrapped around each bottle.

Ladies and children, and those who dislike taking pills and nauseous medicines to secure cathartic action, are especially pleased with its agreeable qualities.

FRIDAY MORNING, MAY 6, 1881.

THE TREATIES RATIFIED.

There is at present so much demand for labor on the Pacific slope that the presence of Chinese excites less popular opposition now than for a long time past. No person now who wants to work seeks employment in vain. It is railroad building chiefly, that causes this unusual demand for labor. All classes of laborers, white and Chinese, who can be engaged for work, are eagerly sought. From San Francisco and Portland all Chinese laborers have been drawn away, and thousands more are wanted. Scattered so widely as they now are the presence of the Chinese is not so much noticed, and as there is at present work for everybody, their competition is not felt. Hence there is at this time less agitation of the question and less disposition to assert that the Chinese must go, than at any period for many years. As a consequence there is not now so much interest in the ratification of the treaty for restriction of Chinese immigration as there would have been even a year or two ago. But the demand for railroad labor will not continue long at the present rate. In a couple of years the hurry of railroad building will probably be over, and then the Chinese will be back again in the towns, where their concentration will revive the old opposition, start anew the remonstrance against their presence, and the spirit upon which the old "agitation" in all its familiar forms.

For these and other reasons we are glad that the senate has ratified the treaty which permits our government to restrict the immigration of Chinese. It is hardly probable that congress will permit a single session to pass by without enactment of measures to make the restriction effective. Although the Chinese now in the United States are not to be required to depart, or otherwise disturbed, yet any moderately restrictive measure will prevent the increase of their numbers among us; and should congress totally suspend the immigration of Chinese laborers, as it may under the new treaty, their numbers will rapidly diminish by death, and by return to their own country.

This treaty contains only four sections. The first section provides, in substance, that whenever, in the judgment of this country Chinese immigration shall affect its interests injuriously, our government may regulate, limit or suspend such immigration, but that such restrictions shall be reasonable and shall apply only to Chinese who may come to the United States as laborers, meaning, of course, the coolies, other classes not being included. The second section provides that Chinese subjects, whether they come to the United States as teachers, students, merchants, or from curiosity, together with body or household servants and Chinese laborers now resident here, shall be allowed to go and come of their own free will, and shall be accorded all rights privileges, immunities and exemptions which are accorded to citizens and subjects of the most favored nations. The third provides that the United States government shall protect all Chinamen, either permanently or temporarily residing here from maltreatment. And the last provides that when our government shall have adopted legislative measures in accordance with the treaty, they shall be communicated to the Chinese government, and if they work any hardship upon the Chinese, then such hardship shall be considered by the representatives of the two governments with a view to its removal. The sum of the treaty simply is that the United States may at any time restrict or stop the immigration of Chinese laborers, but shall afford protection and guarantee just treatment to all Chinese who may be in the country.

It will hardly be necessary [illegible] to go into hysterics in their demand [illegible] sion of a congress pledged to carry into effect the restriction which the treaty concedes. Members of both parties in congress, ever on the alert to catch the popular gale, will pretty certainly show alacrity enough in providing the legislation necessary to enforce the restriction.

A DISCREDITABLE EPISODE.

What the republicans of the senate ought to have done two months ago they have been forced to do at last. Abandoning Gorham and Riddleberger they have finally permitted the senate to proceed with executive business. Transaction of executive business is the sole object for which the session was called, and there was no occasion for attempting anything beyond it. The entanglement with Mahone was as unnecessary as unwise. Political bargaining is always odious. It has taken many weeks for the republican members of the senate to perceive what the country perceived from the first, that this intrigue with Mahone for the furtherance of a scheme for the benefit of Gorham, and planned with Gorham's habitual and characteristic disregard of the moralities of politics, could be creditable neither to the senate nor to the republican party. It is hard to say whether the republican party, by the action of its representatives, was ever made to appear so small before.

From the first it has been apparent that retreat from an untenable position would be necessary. Hence there has been no use in persisting in a blunder. Success could not attend the effort, and the best way was to back out of it. This ought to have been done long ago. Narrow partisanship never made the republican party appear at such a disadvantage. Its representatives in the senate have been contending for a few small offices with as much earnestness as if the existence of the party depended on the issue; and in accepting Mahone as their ally, in making themselves his champions, and in trying to pledge the patronage and power of the administration to his support, they became identified in the public mind with the atrocious financial programme which he represents —a programme which repudiates one-third of the debt of Virginia without any rational pretext or scruple, and which, if adopted or encouraged by the republican party, commends the doctrine of financial repudiation which that party has heretofore opposed with approval of the country, in every form.

The strength of the republican party stands on other foundations than those of intrigue, chicane, bargains, and the whole train of methods by which professional jobbers in politics, of whom Gorham is a conspicuous example, attempt to promote their personal interests at the expense of the reputation and honor of a party. When it can stand on nothing higher than has been presented in this miserable squabble of the last two months at Washington, its days will be numbered and its kingdom at an end. If the country forgives it this discreditable episode it will be mainly because, as heretofore, it can have no confidence in better things from the democratic party.

The chief of the ordnance bureau of the war department has recommended that the bayonet be abandoned as an ineffective and even useless weapon. This recommendation is in the line of recent action taken by France and Germany, which have decided to let both the bayonet and the sabre go; the former as a clumsy, heavy and useless addition to a breech-loading rifle, and the latter as a mere ornament, needless in modern warfare and only in the way. Bayonet charges sound well in poetry, but they have always been rare, and since long-range rifles came into use are rarer still. In the last Franco-German war wounds by bayonet and sabre were almost unknown. Modern experience finds these weapons not only useless for action, but an encumbrance to the soldier. The French also have abolished drums and fifes, and only one band to a division is allowed.

The Cleveland Leader states that a movement is on foot at Washington for the displacement of assistant secretary French of the treasury, on account of his refusal to reverse the decisions of Secretary Sherman on questions raised by the protected monopolists in the iron trade. It is demanded that some person be put in that office who will decide that an importer is a public enemy, who has no rights which a public officer shall respect or recognize. Congress makes the law, and the treasury officers and the courts decide all questions arising under the law. Secretary Sherman, who has never been suspected of being a free trader, was compelled to decide several questions adversely to the protected monopolists, and the baffled extortionists are seeking the scalp of his unfortunate deputy.

Owners of railway lines from the Mississippi valley to the Atlantic seaboard, are beginning to look with some apprehension on the steady increase of the grain movement down the Mississippi river. Great elevators are under construction at Cairo, Ill., Belmont, Mo., and other terminal points of local railway lines to accommodate this growing traffic. Last year the movement of grain down the river exceeded 25,000,000 bushels. The business is said to be very remunerative, and the fleet for this year is being largely increased. It is believed that the grain movement on the Mississippi the present year will approach 100,000,000 bushels. Last year the entire movement of grain to the Atlantic seaboard was 230,000,000 bushels. Some think that this diversion of the grain traffic to the Mississippi river, which is steadily and surely progressing, will appear before long in depression of the value of trunk line railway shares.

The appearance of the page in the revised New Testament will be quite different from that of the old copies. The verses are numbered, as heretofore, but paragraphs occur only where change of subject requires them. To facilitate reference, the numbers of the verses and of the chapters are given in the margin, those of the chapters being distinguished by larger and blacker type. This will be a novelty, perhaps an unpleasant one, to many devout searchers of the scriptures, yet both chapter and verse are comparatively modern innovations. Another change and a good one is the printing of quotations from the poetical parts of the older scriptures as poetry and not as prose.

Since the decision of the supreme court holding the town trustees of East Portland to personal liability for damages resulting from bad streets there is no rush to get into the town council over there. But we might ship over to East Portland some dozen or so of municipal statesmen from this side, who are trying to run the affairs of this city. These gentlemen could take all the chances. They could look with an unruffled calmness in the faces of suitors for damages, and, if need be, ask them in a mingled tone of gentlemanly sarcasm and quiet triumph how they proposed to recover.

Senator Blair (republican) of New Hampshire, introduced a resolution in the senate the other day declaring that revision of the tariff is demanded by the country. The resolution could not be considered, because Gorham and Riddleberger were before the senate as "paramount issues." But the time will come when consideration of the subject can not be postponed. There are multitudes of republicans who agree with Senator Blair as to its importance.

Senate proceedings, as epitomized by the Chicago Times: "Senate met. Prayer by chaplain (probably wasted). Such senators as were not paired were present. Motion to go into executive session lost. Vice president announced in order the consideration of the Hoar resolution to proceed to the election of Mr. Mahone's Virginia friend. Dilly-dallying for three hours. Senate adjourned."

It is very probable, indeed certain, that in many of the cases where mail routes were "expedited" and the pay increased three, five or ten fold, the extra service contracted and paid for was not performed. One particular instance is that of the Oregon and California overland route, where $50,000 a year has long been paid for extra service which notoriously was never rendered.

The acceptance of the plan of the Villard syndicate at Frankfort yesterday for reorganization of the Oregon and California Railroad Company is an important matter for Oregon, the more so from the fact that the plan is understood to include the purpose of extending the road south of Roseburg.

Dorsey is about to write another letter in defense of himself in the matter of the star route frauds. He and Brady would do well to subside and enjoy their vast "earnings" as quietly as possible.

FRIDAY MORNING, MAY 6, 1881.

CITY.

COMMUTATIONS.—Gov. Thayer has recently granted the following commutations to convicts in the state penitentiary: John Riley, sent from Multnomah county for assault with intent to kill, for 5 years from February 22, 1879—good conduct and term of sentence nearly expired. William G. Lawrence, sent from Polk county for robbery, being armed with a dangerous weapon, for the term of 15 years from December 11, 1879—reason assigned, for dementary disease from which physician certifies he can not recover if longer confined; on petition signed by the judge before whom he was convicted, and on condition that he leave the state within thirty days and not return during the period for which he was sentenced. Lawrence was one of the parties who robbed Pipper's store in Polk county. C. M. McCreary, sent from Multnomah county for the crime of larceny in a store for a term of 6 years from February 8, 1879—petition of citizens of Portland and on condition that said McCreary leave this state not to return during the period for which he was sentenced. Means have been sent to parties in Salem to pay his passage to South America, where it is to be hoped he will secure lucrative employment and hereafter lead a better life.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—The Oregon City Enterprise says: On Saturday, April 30th, Mrs. Pedersen, on returning to her home on Sandy, after visiting some of her neighbors, found her husband lying close to the house in an insensible condition, in a pool of blood. She instantly summoned some of her neighbors, who came quickly, but he was dead. The ground where he was found showed that he had been bleeding. [illegible] There were [illegible] to the woods where [illegible] to a large pool [illegible] It was very [illegible] a few places [illegible] which were probably some of [illegible] He had attempted to [illegible] but the flow of blood was evidently [illegible] The neighbors [illegible] and Justice Parker, [illegible] impaneled a jury, who returned a verdict of "accidental death." At the time of his death he was about 60 years of age. He leaves a wife to mourn her loss, but no children.

W. C. T. UNION.—The W. C. T. Union held a very pleasant and profitable session in the M. E. church, corner Hall and Sixth streets, Wednesday. Business of importance was transacted, the ladies present manifesting great interest in the work before them. Mrs. A. S. Duniway was present and made a short but telling speech to the union on the importance of the work to be accomplished by the friends of temperance in Portland and elsewhere. Her remarks were listened to with interest and highly appreciated. Mrs. D. was elected vice-president of the union in place of Mrs. Quincy, resigned. Committees were appointed to arrange work and the union adjourned to meet in the same place next Wednesday at 3 P. M.

THE PULLMAN CARS.—The four Pullman sleepers for the O. R. & N. Co. have arrived in San Francisco and will be forwarded here by sailing vessels without delay. It is expected that the railroad gauge from Wallula to Walla Walla will be changed, and the sleeping cars running by June 1st. Mr. W. F. Shields of Chicago has been appointed manager for the Pullman Co. for Oregon and Washington.

RELIGIOUS SERVICES PROVIDED.—Bishop Morris has provided for religious services every Thursday afternoon as follows: First Thursday in the month by the Rev. G. F. Plummer; second Thursday in the month by the Rev. John Rosenberg; Thursday after the third Sunday by the Rev. B. E. Habersham; fourth Thursday in the month by the Rev. John W. Sellwood.

AWAY BUSY.—We frequently see the Darling man of the Stewart History of Oregon on the streets and in various business offices, and though he don't appear to be overburdened with time he takes enough to tell us that he and his assistant Mrs. May Ford of Walla Walla are gathering in subscriptions to their work in a way truly gratifying to their publishers. More anon.

COUNTY IMPROVEMENTS.—The county commissioners have concluded to make some repairs to the court house and the grounds. Among other improvements the iron fence around the block will be painted, also the iron railing around the verandah. The contract for painting was awarded Frank P. Holt [illegible] the county to furnish the paint.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.—At the annual election last Wednesday evening, the British Benevolent Society chose the following officers: President, Donald Macleay; vice-president, Wm. S. Sibson; secretary, Thos. Upton; treasurer, R. J. McGregor; board of relief, Rev. John Rosenberg and Messrs. McIntosh and P. C. McKercher.

CALENDAR FOR MAY.—According to the Protestant church, the following is the calendar for May: [illegible] Sunday after Easter, [illegible] Sunday after [illegible] 15, fourth Sunday after Easter; [illegible] fifth Sunday after Easter, [illegible] 24, 25, 26, Rogation Days; [illegible] Ascension Day; 29, Sunday after Ascension.

[illegible]—The amount of criminal business [illegible] the present term of the state circuit court [illegible] is quite large. A number [illegible] indictments have been returned. District Attorney J. F. Caples and the grand jury are busily engaged in investigating criminal cases.

APPOINTMENTS.—The following are the appointments of Bishop Morris for May and June: May 1, Astoria; 8, The Dalles; 11, Saturday evening, Weston; 15, A. M., Weston, P. M., Pendleton; 18, 19, Pendleton; 22, Walla Walla, W. T.; June 2, annual convention, Trinity church, Portland.

THE LITHOGRAPHED BONDS.—The new city bonds, 15 in number, bought by the First National Bank, were signed yesterday by Mayor Thompson and City Auditor Durham, and delivered to the purchasers. The bonds, executed at Washington's establishment, are fine specimens of lithography.

NET PROCEEDS.—The performance given last Saturday evening at New Market theater by the Young Men's Catholic Dramatic and Musical Society for the benefit of the cathedral fund, was very successful in a financial sense. The net proceeds approximated $300.

CHINESE PHEASANTS.—The British ship Oakworth, lying at Greenwich dock, brings an immense bamboo cage containing ninety beautiful pheasants sent by Judge O. N. Denny, consul at Shanghai, to be distributed in Oregon and Washington.

DEATH OF MRS. McCARTIE.—Mrs. Catherine McCartie, of Mormon Basin, Baker county, aged 37 years, died at St. Vincent Hospital in this city, on Friday, May 2d. She was buried on Tuesday in St. Mary's cemetery.

TRANSCONTINENTAL EXCURSION.—The excursion to Boston will leave by the steamer of the 15th. Parties from a distance must be at the St. Charles hotel on the 13th or 14th, to secure tickets and rooms on the steamer.

PROPOSED PICNIC.—We understand that the Independent Order of Good Samaritans and Daughters of Samaria will hold their annual picnic on the 17th of June. Preparations are being made for a grand time.

RELIGIOUS NOTES.

[Advocate and Sentinel.]

The camp meeting for the Lafayette circuit will be held on the McMinnville camp ground, commencing June 24.

There will be a camp meeting for the Yakima City charge, of the M. E. church, held on Martin Vaughn's land, near Olmstead's ferry, beginning Thursday morning May 19, 1881.

The Ladies Social Union of the Taylor street M. E. church recently presented the pastor, Rev. J. H. Acton, and wife, with a very handsome quilt, the work of the ladies, and upon which are written their names and many pleasant mottoes in indelible ink.

COMMITTEE MEETING.

This evening there will be an adjourned meeting of the executive committee appointed last week to make arrangements for the celebration of the coming Fourth.

The meeting will be held in the county court room at 7:30 o'clock.

Every member of the executive committee is expected to be present, and the various sub-committees will make their reports.

AMUSEMENTS.

THE MINSTRELS.—Another crowded house witnessed the third and last performance of the engagement at New Market theater, [illegible] The audience keenly appreciated the songs, dances, jokes and witticisms, it laughed and heartily and frequent applause can be taken as an evidence of the complete satisfaction.

Part first consisted of new songs throughout, after an overture medley by the orchestra. Billy Arlington sang "Her Beauty was all She had," Ernest Stanley, "Mask of my Mother's Hair," John W. Morton, "Centennial," an original comic song, James A. Barney, "Gilt Tin Plates," [illegible]; Burt Haverly, "Golden Slippers," [illegible] Beeler, "Baby's Star." The very funny songs [illegible] "Soldier of [illegible] Moon," concluded part first.

In part second, Miss Lucas Schutz, Bob Slavin, the Arnolds, the Barkins and the celebrated Big Four each appeared in their respective specialties. The songs, jokes and witticisms of Bob Slavin, and the silver statue clog by the Arnold brothers, were very keenly enjoyed and very heartily applauded. "Rose of Lovers," a laughable sketch, concluded the very enjoyable performance.

This morning the company will leave for The Dalles, where they will appear this and tomorrow evenings. Returning to this city on Monday, they will perform every evening during the next week. To all lovers of innocent and refined amusement, we can heartily recommend the Big Four Minstrels. The people of The Dalles will doubtless liberally patronize them.

AN OLD PROFESSIONAL.—Mr. J. S. Sheppard, the courteous and efficient agent for the Big Four minstrels, is one of the old pioneer exponents of the burnt cork art, having been on the stage nearly 40 years ago. He is the father of John W. Morton, a member of the company, who is regarded as one of the greatest comedians on the minstrel stage. Morton [illegible] stage [illegible] over 20 years ago as a clog dancer. He was then not 8 years old.

Sec. 2. Licensed wharfingers shall have full power to order the rigging in of jibbooms, spanker booms, cat-billing of lower yards and stowing of anchors, rigging in of bumpkins, whiskers, martingales, etc., either before or after said ship is made fast to, or brought alongside of the dock or wharf under his charge.

Sec. 3. Said wharfingers shall also have full power and authority to order the removal of any vessel from one part of said wharf or dock to any other part thereof, and to regulate the movements of said vessel in order to facilitate the entry or discharge of cargo.

LETTING STREET CONTRACTS.

An Animated Crowd at the City Auditor's Office Wednesday Afternoon.

The meeting of the committee on streets and public property last Wednesday afternoon to open the bids for the work of laying stone block pavement on Front street and constructing sidewalks on F street between Thirteenth and Nineteenth was the scene of considerable animation among the contestants for the work, and the closeness of the bids indicate that there was some close figuring done by the contractors, about fifteen of whom were present.

The bids for the stone pavement were first opened and they were found to be so close that the aggregate amount of the bids had to be calculated before it was known who was the lowest bidder on each block, and in one instance there was only a difference of $3 36, between the lowest and next higher bid, and $13 between the lowest and highest bids on a piece of work that was let for over $2800. That part of the work between E and F streets was bid in by the owners of the adjacent property, and three bids were offered for the remainder, of which Messrs. S. S. Cook & Co. got one block and Hamilton's company three blocks. The following statement shows the amounts of the contesting bids:

Portion of Street	Hamilton's Bid	Cook's Bid	Nelson & Kern's	Diff bet. 2 lowest
Vine to A	$3146 15	$3178 28	$3146 87	$0 80
A to B	2[illegible] 33	2766 81	2821 41	32 24
B to C	2902 11	28[illegible]	2936 49	36 [illegible]
C to D	28[illegible] 50	2807 24	2804 72	[illegible] 28

Six Sidewalk [illegible] on F street were let, one to A [illegible], each to Manning Lowe, A. Hamilton, M. Dorsey and Cook & Co., and two blocks to [illegible] Mahon. Not more than [illegible] the contractors [illegible], and in one case only [illegible] cents.

AFTER THIRTY-TWO YEARS.

SALEM, May [illegible] 1881.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

In the Sunday Mercury of the 24th ult. the question is asked, "Is Nesmith a foreigner?" and the writer proceeds to answer by [illegible] of the N. Y. Tribune dated Oct. 17, 1849, [illegible] nomination over the signature of "A[illegible]" [illegible] dated at Oregon City [illegible] 1849, which refers to Mr. Nesmith as a man of [illegible], a Scotch and a deserter from the United States army.

[illegible] by [illegible] the [illegible] writing I was receiving several [illegible] sent from Oregon to McElrath [illegible] correspondent of the N. Y. Tribune, about the letter of the date above mentioned I gave the general news, and especially the election returns of [illegible] which I made so brief [illegible] the subject of the social and political status [illegible] of the defeated candidates for delegate to congress. Among other things I said:

"Nesmith, upon whom various [illegible] whose [illegible] threw away their votes [illegible] mostly foreigners [illegible] naturalized foreigner. In addition to this, he [illegible] the United States army, and had [illegible] the necessity of [illegible]

When I came to write, I believed [illegible] made to me by one [illegible] that [illegible] to receive [illegible] Nesmith [illegible] was on my way to [illegible] legislative assembly [illegible] government [illegible]

The reader, then, may [illegible] suggested the letter now [illegible] in a [illegible] century [illegible] a person [illegible] of [illegible] and respect [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] left unpunished. [illegible] that a whole generation [illegible] have been [illegible] that I am now at liberty [illegible] the Mercury article furnishes me with an occasion in which I can say, without any [illegible] being misunderstood, that I have since been thoroughly convinced that Gen. Nesmith, at the time of my writing of the Tribune letter, was not a deserter from the United States army; that he was then, as he is now, a citizen of the United States, and that three generations of his ancestors are buried in soil over which floats the [illegible] of our nationality.

I believe it is some classical writer who has said in substance, that a present behaviour [illegible] compensate for any miscarriage in what has passed; but the present slackness will not make up for even past activity, that time has swallowed up all that we contemporaries did yesterday as irrevocably as the actions of the antediluvians; but being again awaked the question is asked, what shall we do today, to lay which passes while we are yet speaking? Shall we remember the folly of last night, or resolve upon the exercise of virtue tomorrow? Last night is certainly gone and tomorrow may never arrive. And since it is far from greatness of spirit to persist in the wrong in anything, nor is it diminution of greatness of spirit to have been in the wrong, perfection not being an attribute of man, he is not degraded by the acknowledgment of an error, but on the contrary if he can throw off by any mark of honor and virtue by confessing even an unintentional wrong, he relieves and [illegible] for having [illegible] entangled himself in an after life of guilt, sorrow and perplexity.

In conclusion of an article I [illegible] that I [illegible] to write, I have only to say that I have been reminded by the Mercury article that in whatever country of other [illegible] birth [illegible] Gen. Nesmith's honored ancestry [illegible] "Four and [illegible] in the [illegible] of the United States [illegible] and in [illegible] designated [illegible] agents at the time and many of them holding land by the bounty of the government [illegible]

FASHION NOTES.

[illegible]

[illegible]

Among the French [illegible] Japanese [illegible]

[illegible]

The jet fringes now worn are tinkling as they [illegible] on the counter, and in a dress they remind one of the merry [illegible] with which an Indian squaw decks her master, and they rattle and clash and clank in a manner which is more noisy than musical.

Never mind how hideous your hands look in mitts of Brussels lace tied at the top with black velvets such as are now in vogue, for every one will know you are wearing the most expensive thing that can at present be bought for covering the hands.

The French invent queer names for articles of dress, but they have not in a long time got up anything queerer than the appellation they have lately given to a gentleman's evening coat, which they call at present a sifflet d'ebene, or ebony whistle.

Some Bostonians who have more money than they know what to do with, have lately taken to giving as engagement rings, instead of the usual diamond solitaire, three gipsy rings which are hoops of diamonds, rubies and sapphires, and they pretend it is an English fashion.

Boston women are charged by the Transcript with going about to various shops and getting at each a sample of bead trimming, and collecting in this way materials enough to bead the fringe for one dress, at least. Who would have thought so much dishonesty exists in that virtuous city.

Why ride in a shabby old carriage when you can ride in a nice new one for the same price at Acker & Leithy's City Stables.

A juicy steak or a chop at Waller's.

Are you going into the country this summer? Leave your piano and furniture with Uncle Myer for safe keeping, as he has the large store room in the rear of his store for that purpose, 181 First street.

"I'm short," he said, "and can't stand the pressure." He continues to wear that shabby suit. Since the well known firm, Beck & Waldman, have cut down prices there is no necessity for any man to use the expression used above. Only a few dollars required for an outfit.

Peruvian Bitters.

(CINCHONA RUBRA.)

THE COUNT CINCHON WAS THE SPANISH Viceroy in Peru in 1630. The Countess, his wife, was prostrated by an intermittent fever, from which she was freed by the use of the native remedy, the PERUVIAN BARK, or, as it was called in the language of the country, "Quinquina." Grateful for her recovery, on her return to Europe, in 1632, she introduced the remedy in Spain, where it was known under various names, until Linnæus called it Cinchona, in honor of the lady who had brought them that which was more precious than the gold of the Incas. To this day, after a lapse of two hundred and fifty years, science has given us nothing to take its place. It effectually CURES A MORBID APPETITE FOR STIMULANTS, by restoring the natural tone of the stomach. It attacks excessive love of liquor as it does a fever, and destroys both alike. The powerful tonic virtue of the CINCHONA is preserved in the

PERUVIAN BITTERS,

Which are as effective against malarial fever to-day as they were in the days of the old Spanish Viceroys.

We guarantee the ingredients of these Bitters to be ABSOLUTELY PURE, and of the best known quality. A trial will satisfy you that this is the BEST BITTER IN THE WORLD. The proof of the pudding is in the eating," and we willingly abide this test.

[illegible] libel [illegible] against [illegible] libelants.

[illegible] mortgagor of a ship [illegible] with the consent of the mortgagee is therefore [illegible] to make any [illegible] additions or repairs [illegible] necessary [illegible] for her preservation and use [illegible] mortgagee, and in such case the material [illegible] passes [illegible] property [illegible].

[illegible] not [illegible] possession of the [illegible] mortgagee [illegible] the mortgage belongs to the [illegible].

[illegible] the old material [illegible] not [illegible] the vessel, the fact that the mortgagee [illegible] on board [illegible] from the operation of the mortgage and appropriated [illegible] in exchange for the new material [illegible] its place.

[illegible] While the Canada was in possession of George Howes & Co. as mortgagors, and making the voyage from New York to Portland, Or., she was recoppered at Rio de Janeiro and the old copper stowed in her hold and brought to Portland, where she was taken possession of by Sutton & Co., as mortgagees—Held, that the old copper was separated from the ship and withdrawn from the operation of the mortgage and was the property of the mortgagors.

DEADY, J.

In March, 1880, the ship Canada, of New York, owned by George and Jabez Howes of that place, sailed for this port with a cargo of railway iron, and on account of being compelled to put into Rio de Janeiro for repairs, did not reach her destination until March 4, 1881.

On and prior to the sailing of said vessel from New York, the Howes were indebted to the libelants, George Cornish and Rufus Hitchcock, of that place, in the sum of $660 for materials furnished and services rendered in repairing said vessel in the years of 1879 and 1880.

On March 9, Thomas F. McNeill et al., composing the crew of the vessel, brought suit against her for their wages; and on April 2, Effingham B. Sutton et al., constituting the firm of Sutton & Co., of New York, intervened for their interest as mortgagees in possession, to secure them against any liability they might incur by reason of having endorsed three certain notes of said Howes in March and April, 1879, for the sum of $15,481 15, which they were afterwards compelled to pay, and petitioned that the proceeds of the vessel remaining after the payment of prior claims, including a balance of $11,759 19 due on a bottomry bond given for the repairs at Rio, and all the proceeds of 9,140 pounds of old copper then on board the vessel and taken off her at Rio and there replaced by new copper, might be applied upon the debt secured by said mortgage.

On March 31, 1881, the libelants commenced an action in the circuit court for the county of Multnomah against said Howes for the recovery of said $660, and upon the same day procured a writ of attachment to issue therein against the property of the defendants therein, upon which writ said copper was duly attached.

At the date of said attachment said copper was stowed in the hold of said vessel, which was in the custody of the marshal of the district upon the warrant issued upon the libel of Thomas F. McNeill et al., aforesaid, and subject thereto, in the possession of said Sutton & Co., as mortgagees, which possession was obtained after the arrival of the vessel here by means of an action of replevin commenced in the circuit court aforesaid, on March 5, 1881, in which no special mention was made of said copper.

In the intervention of Sutton & Co. it is alleged that this old copper was and is included in the mortgage of the vessel and that the same is in their possession on board the ship.

On April 6 the vessel, without the copper, was sold for $26,000 upon an interlocutory decree in the suit of McNeill et al. aforesaid; and on the same day a stipulation was entered into between Cornish & Hitchcock and Sutton & Co., stating the facts aforesaid concerning said copper and that a controversy existed between said parties as to whether or not said metal is included in or is now a part of the mortgaged property, or whether it should be applied upon the claim of said C. & H. by virtue of their attachment; and consenting that said copper might be sold by the marshal and that the proceeds, less the expenses of sale, should be held subject to the claim of each party, and the right of C. & H. to intervene and assert their claim in this suit.

Upon this stipulation an order was made for the sale of the copper and it was sold by the marshal for $1098 53.

No decided case in point has been found; but I think the question involved in this controversy may be satisfactorily answered by a careful consideration of the circumstances and purpose of the transaction, and a reference to the rules and principles which govern the rights of parties in the case of a mortgage of lands where the mortgagor remains in possession.

A mortgage of land includes everything annexed to the freehold at the date thereof or that may become so annexed during the existence of the mortgage. Winslow v. Merchants' Ins. Co., 4 Met., 310. But a building or growing timber severed and removed from the mortgaged land of which it formed a part when the mortgage was given, is thereby withdrawn from the operation of the mortgage. By reason of such removal they cease to be a part of the realty—the pledge. Buckout v. Swift, 27 Cal., 138.

The right of the mortgagor in possession to cut timber and remove fixtures and dispose of them is unlimited, unless restrained by a court of equity upon the impression that the land will thereby be rendered an insufficient security for the debt. Brady v. Waldron, 2 John. Ch. 148.

When Sutton & Co. took their mortgage upon the Canada, but left her in the possession and use of the mortgagors, they impliedly authorized the latter to make such changes, additions and repairs in her fitment, tackle, apparel and furniture as might be necessary and convenient for her preservation and use as a ship; so that they did not willfully depreciate her value as a security for their debt.

In pursuance of this authority, the Howes might, as mortgagors in possession, remove from time to time every part of this vessel, including her tackle, apparel and furniture, and replace it with new, and dispose of the old and displaced material as their property, unaffected by the mortgage. But in case the old material was not so disposed of and was left on board and passed into the possession of Sutton & Co. when they took possession of the ship, to whom it then would belong would depend on circumstances.

In the consideration of the question I think it may be assumed that in the case of a bona fide repair, particularly where old material is displaced with new of equal or greater value, that the mortgagor has a right to dispose of the old material as his own.

But where no such disposition is made of it, and it is suffered to remain on board as part of the ship's material, and is capable of being used in some form in the navigation of the vessel, I think the old material would still belong to the ship—remain a part of it—and be the property of the mortgagee in possession.

For instance, if the mortgagor in possession should put a new suit of sails on the vessel and instead of disposing of the old ones should stow them away as suitable material for mending or supplying a rent or lost sail, such old material would remain within the operation of the mortgage and pass to the mortgagee in possession.

Under these circumstances the reasonable inference would be that while the mortgagor had for the safety and convenience of the vessel added to the value of the security by the cost of the new sails (Southworth v. Isham, 3 Sand., [illegible]), yet he did not intend to appropriate or divert the old ones from the use of the ship or the operation of the mortgage.

Applying these suggestions to the case under consideration, it appears to me that this old copper, as soon as it was removed from the sides of the vessel and its place supplied with new, became the property of the mortgagors. Upon this conclusion, the master must have disposed of the 2000 additional pounds which he sold at Rio, as the property of the mortgagors, for $240; and he probably would have disposed of the remainder in the same way, if it had not been thought best to bring it here for a better market, which has proved the case.

No practical use has been shown or even suggested, to which this copper could be applied in the ordinary navigation or use of the vessel, and therefore, although it was suffered to remain on board until the mortgagee took possession, there is no reason to conclude that [illegible] intend to separate it [illegible] the vessel and [illegible] in exchange for the new [illegible] circumstances connected with the transaction which [illegible] that the old copper was not only actually [illegible] off from the vessel [illegible] and [illegible] so that it was no longer a part of it. And finally, the value of the security of [illegible] has been enhanced rather than diminished by the exchange, and therefore there is [illegible] merit in their claim.

Under these circumstances [illegible] and is the property of [illegible] Howes, and therefore liable to the attachment of the libelants in their action in the circuit court to recover the sum due them from said Howes, and they thereby acquired a valid and subsisting lien thereon for the amount of their claim and the costs of their action.

The fund arising from the sale of the copper, less the expense of sale and [illegible], must therefore be delivered to the sheriff, with the writ of attachment, to keep subject to the exigencies of such writ.

W. B. Gilbert, for the libelant.

John H. Woodward and John W. Whalley, for the claimant.

PORTLAND, May 5.

The wheat market has been quiet all week and weak at $1 [illegible] cental. Until within a day or two there have been no ships in port except those which were already engaged, and shippers have not been eager to buy in the face of a declining European market. Business in England has been slack at a slight decline as compared with last week's prices.

No charters have been reported for a week. The nominal rate is about 91 shillings, though vessels now offered to shippers demand more.

The situation in wool is unchanged since our last report. Receipts from Eastern Oregon are light as yet and not much movement is expected until the first of June. Prices are about the same as last reported, [illegible] for Eastern Oregon and [illegible] for Willamette valley. Dealers in San Francisco report a liberal movement in California wools and sales for the past week have been large. Rains in Eastern Oregon have during ten days past interfered with shearing to some extent, and not as much is coming forward as would otherwise have been received.

The Marion King will load salmon at Astoria for Rodgers, Meyer & Co. She will not come up to Portland.

The Explorer will load wheat for Rodgers, Meyer & Co. Her charter rate is 91 shillings, with but five lay days.

Home Produce Market.

There is a fair demand for flour owing to consumption by canneries. Stocks of flour are very large. Oats are in good local demand. Offerings are liberal, but not to the extent of demoralizing the market. Prices at San Francisco are lower. Hay is in good demand. Well baled timothy is wanted. Shippers should bale their hay tighter as much is lost through loose and careless baling. Mill feed is dull and lower. Pasturage is now everywhere good. Oregon butter is coming in in large lots, and in consequence local dealers are able to sell almost at San Francisco rates. Receipts from California are decreasing, and will cease altogether before the close of the current month. Receipts of eggs during the past week have been quite large and stocks are accumulating. A decline may be expected. The demand for Oregon shoulders and hams is good. Bacon is plentiful and sales are slow. Good Oregon lard is very scarce and wanted. Dried fruit must go lower to move off the large surplus still remaining in the state. Stocks on hand in the city are large. Dried fruit is really cheaper in California than here. There is no change to note in hides. Receipts are small and business is light. Green apples are slow sale owing to bad quality of fruit on hand. Honey is in moderate demand. The receipts of chickens during the past week were so large that they caused quite a decline; we look for a recovery before long. Potatoes are in liberal supply and sales are slow. Turnips and carrots are scarce and wanted. Onions are extremely high. Peas, beans and seeds are unchanged. Hops are quiet, some holders are badly caught. Shingles are in fair demand.

MARK LANE REPORT.

LONDON, May 2.—The Mark Lane Express in its review of the grain trade for the past week says that more genial weather has had a beneficial effect. Wheat looks healthy, though still very backward. Supplies of English wheat have been somewhat more liberal. Prices have been nominally maintained at a few provincial markets, but in London and generally elsewhere the trade has been slow and drooping. Buyers refused to do business in foreign breadstuffs except at a concession. The tension has now become very great, and in view of the supply on spot and afloat it would appear that lower rates are imminent. Of 22 cargoes which arrived at ports of call in the past week, only seven are reported sold, and forty more vessels are due for orders this week. Flour has been lower and in very liberal supply. American flour assumed proportions which have completely revolutionized the British milling trade, and has been a dead weight on the wheat trade. Maize has been easier. Barley is firmly held. Foreign scarce and six pence to a shilling dearer. Oats dull and unchanged. Sales of English wheat last week 23,214 qrs at 44s 5d against 27,955 qrs at 46s 9d for the corresponding week of last year.

LIVERPOOL WHEAT MARKET.

The following is a copy of the Interior Merchants agency cable received to-day:

LIVERPOOL, 2:30 P. M., May 5.

Spot market for Pacific coast wheat is dull, owing to large arrivals of Oregon and California. Average Oregon quotable at 10s 1d. California No. 2 9s 8d per cental. For cargoes the market is less depressed than yesterday. The market is influenced unfavorably by good weather for agricultural prospects, but favorably affected by a moderate demand for cargoes on coast for the continent. To sell on present condition of the market only 48s 3d can be realized for Oregon C. F. and I. from U. K., but to lay more has to be paid.

HUB PUNCH,

TO TOP OFF A DINNER,

May be Drunk Clear, as a Cordial.

For a dinner the orthodox, approved, the good old way was to wash down the last triumphs of the feast with copious libations of rich, rare and curious old Port and Golden Sherry; but "HUB PUNCH" has added a new sensation to the epicure. Its delicacy, aroma, flavor, and delicious, but gentle effects, proclaim it the nectar fit for the gods banqueting on Olympus.

Mix HUB PUNCH with Ice Water, Cold Tea, Lemonade, or Soda. It is unanimously pronounced unrivaled.

TESTIMONIALS.

"A capital nectar."—Boston Globe.

"Delicious is good description."—Boston Transcript.

"Added to the good things of the table, it enlarges the pleasures of life and encourages good fellowship and good nature [illegible]."—Springfield Rep., Mass.

"Invaluable for a little treat when a friend drops in."—New York Evening Post.

"It is no great trouble to make Punch, and many people lack the nerve or [illegible] to brew it. Hub Punch is indispensable wherever known."—Spirit of the Times, N.Y.

"The increasing popularity of Hub Punch is pleasant testimony to your success in using the best and purest components." PARK & TILFORD, New York.

"Our success in selling Hub Punch has surprised us, we having sold within the past three months a larger quantity than we anticipated selling in twelve." SMITH & VANDERBEEK, New York and Chicago.

THE GENUINE

CELEBRATED

FOR THE CURE OF

Hepatitis, or Liver Complaint

DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE.

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is on the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER.

DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them A FAIR TRIAL.

For all bilious derangements, and as a simple purgative, they are unequaled.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

The genuine are never sugar coated.

Every box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression DR. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

The genuine McLANE'S LIVER PILLS bear the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS. on the wrappers.

Insist upon having the genuine DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation.
